PERSONAL AND CONFIDENTIAL

Mr. Robert Amory/Jr. Chief, International Division Bureau of the Budget Washington 25, D. C.

Dear Bob:

I thought you might be interested in my reactions to the session at the Airlie Foundation sponsored by the Bureau of the Budget to discuss manpower controls. I appreciate the invitation from the Bureau and would be frank to admit my contribution was not very great, inasmuch as being a newcomer to the group, I didn't wish to seem pushy in describing some of the things the Agency has done in the field of manpower control. On the other hand, I did feel that in many areas we were either up to or ahead of some of the line departments. I think perhaps that may have been a result of a deep concern over the careful and correct handling of all confidential funds and the result in which we erected more checks and balances and safeguards than other departments would do.

I particularly enjoyed the chance the meeting at Airlie afforded to become acquainted with senior officers in other departments who were concerned with this problem. If the Bureau is to sponsor future programs of the Executive Officer's group, might I suggest that it could be a more profitable expenditure of time if a senior officer of the Bureau ran the meeting and if in the agenda, the specific subjects to be covered and the direction of the discussions were carefully guided by a senior Bureau officer. This should not be construed as a criticism of this last meeting, but I did feel that it could have profited with a little more tying together.

POLICY ON UTILIZING OLDER WORKERS IN THE FEDERAL SERVICE

In my recent message to the Congress transmitting my recommendations relating to a program for our older citizens, I pointed out that it is the policy of the Federal Government as an employer to evaluate each job applicant on the basis of ability, not age. This policy is intended to assure that the Government obtains the best possible talent from the widest range of choice.

The Federal Government has been an exemplary employer in this regard. The absence of an age restriction on appointment to competitive positions has encouraged employing officers not to overlook potential employees because of irrelevant considerations. Nevertheless, with older persons constituting an ever increasing proportion of the Nation's work force and with growing evidence that older persons are capable of high level productive work, Federal appointing officers should make doubly certain that older persons are in fact being given equal consideration for employment and advancement in the competitive service. Personnel actions should be based, in accordance with merit principles, solely on the ability of candidates to meet qualification requirements and physical standards of the position to be filled.

2

With respect to Federal personnel systems outside the competitive service, I ask that these same principles be followed wherever possible. I further ask all departments and agencies to review their policies and practices regarding maximum age limits in other than the competitive service, and to take steps to insure that such limits are established only when absolutely necessary.

Mr. Harold Seidman
Acting Assistant Director for
Management and Organization
Bureau of the Budget
Washington 25, D. C.

Dear Mr. Seidmant

Thank you for your letter of December 6, 1962, requesting our comments on the General Services Administration's Federal Employee Parking and Transportation Survey for the Washington Metropolitan Area. Virtually all of the Agency's Headquarters employees were housed for many years in buildings in the Oere Area, as designated in the GSA's study, and the problem of parking spaces for U. S. Government employees in that area is fully appreciated.

Stace the move to the new Headquarters building in langley was completed in the spring of 1962, the Agency's parking problem has been greatly reduced because it can new provide parking spaces for Headquarters employees on a very satisfactory ratio. However, a number of our employees are still located in the Core Area and they share the serious transportation and parking problems which confront all Government workers in that area.

With respect to the Survey's conclusions and proposals, our caly comment at this time concerns the suggested Government-wide fee system for parking facilities. The availability of adequate free parking space contributes significantly to good morals and has been a definite factor in making the Agency's move from the downtown area acceptable to many of our employees. We would have strong reservations about any proposal which would eliminate or restrict unduly the favorable situation in that regard which we have been able to develop in our new location. We will appreciate being kept informed of any further developments concerning the subject matter of this Survey Report.

Stacerely

L. K. White
